

nNEWS

Focus on Capital College, UK

By Pa Modou
Bojang

Mr. Taiwo Salami, the Managing Director of Capital College in the United Kingdom (UK) has called on Gambian students to exploit the opportunity available in order to obtain foreign university education.

Mr. Salami made this call yesterday in an interview with The Point.

Mr. Salami who is in The Gambia to begin admission process for the year 2009, said that Capital College is here in The Gambia to enhance and make it possible for Gambian students that have the interest of enrolling into United Kingdom universities.

He said with Capital College, students do not need to pay tuition fees in full. He said that there are short cuts that they can apply. He maintained that this short cut is legal and noted that through it students can obtain the degrees within one year.

However Mr. Salami pos-

Taiwo Salami

ited that he is only interested in genuine students who want to receive university education in United Kingdom.

Mr. Salami revealed that the duration of courses that his institution offers is very short, but of standard, considering the quality of teaching, the experienced lecturers and the research facilities there.

According to him, Capital College is based in London and specifically equipped for professional training in fields of; ACCA, Corporate Administration, Business Management, Travel, Tourism and Hospitality, Administration Management, Marketing, IT and Corporate Development programmes.

He said that they would be holding seminars at the Paradise Suites Hotel on Saturday 18th October 2008 by 11 am. He indicated that applicants should bring along their relevant certificates to get instant admission.